An Introduction to International Business School

International Business School (IBS) is founded in 1991 as an independent, politically unrelated, private higher school. IBS is accredited by the National Evaluation and Accreditation Agency of Republic of Bulgaria.

IBS offers Bachelor, Master and PhD Programs in the following professional fields: Administration and Management, Economics and Tourism. IBS uses the European Credit Transfer and Accumulation System thus contributing to the objectives of the European Higher Education Area – high quality and transparency of the education process and more opportunities for student mobility. Along with the traditional academic forms of education – full-time and part-time – IBS applies distance learning as a contemporary educational approach with a flexible learning process – no compulsory attendance in classes.

The Distance Learning Centre of IBS executes education in a new building combining traditional and modern technologies, which has been nominated as "Building of 2017" in the section of "Education sector".

An Introduction to Sofia

Sofia is Bulgaria's capital and its largest city. Founded thousands of years ago, today the city continues to develop as the country's cultural and economic centre. At present, the city has a population of 1,250,000.

Sofia is located in the western part of the country, on The Sofia Plain and on the lower slopes of Mount Vitosha. The city is located at a strategic crossroads. The route from Western Europe to Istanbul passes through Sofia via Beograd and Skopje, then through Plovdiv to Turkey. Sofia also connects The Near East and The Middle East, lying between the banks of The Danube and the shores of The White Sea on the one hand, and between The Black Sea and The Adriatic on the other.

Sofia is relatively close to the capitals of most Balkan countries: Ankara is 1,012 km; Athens is 837 km; Beograd is 374 km; Bucharest is 395 km; Zagreb is 762 km; Ljubljana is 897 km; Sarajevo is 549 km; Skopje is 239 km; Tirana is 553 km. Three freeways begin in Sofia: Trakia, Lyulin, and Hemus. The Sofia Airport provides travelers with convenient connections to all major European cities, and from the central train station and bus station passengers can reach every destination in the country.

Sofia has been settled for many millennia. In honor of its hot springs, in the 8th century BCE the Thracian tribes settled here gave the city its first name – Serdika or Serdonopolis. In the 1st century BCE, Serdika was captured by the Romans, who transformed it into a Roman city. During the reign of Emperor Marcus Ulpius Trajan (reign 98-117 CE), the city took his name, Ulpia Serdika, and became the administrative center of the region. Serdika was the favorite city of Constantine the Great (reign 306-337), who said "Serdika is my Rome." In roughly 175, massive fortified walls, with four watchtowers were built to protect the city, and a second outer fortified wall was added during the 5th-6th centuries. The city's flourished for a second time under Justinian the Great (reign 527-565). At the beginning of the 9th century, the Bulgarian Han Krum (reign 803-814) invaded Serdika. The city became an inseparable part of The First Bulgarian Empire (7th-9th centuries) under Han Omurtag (reign 814-831). At this time the city was renamed Sredets (The Center), because of its central strategic location. From 1018-1094, Sredets was under Byzantine rule, but still remained an important strategic, economic, and cultural center. During the time of The Second Bulgarian Empire (1185-1393), Sredets took on the appearance of a large Medieval city – its narrow, crowded streets witnessed the construction of more and more small churches and monasteries, which later became Sofia’s Holy Mountain. The city gained its present name at the end of the 14th century, in honour of the city’s major symbol, The Saint Sofia Basilica. In 1382, the city fell to the Ottomans. It was liberated five centuries later, in 1878, and on April 3, 1879 it was declared the capital of the newly-liberated Bulgarian nation.

Sofia preserves many valuable monuments to its long and storied past. Visitors exploring the city’s streets can see remnants of The Eastern Gate from the days when Sofia was Serdika and Sredets, dating from the 2nd-4th centuries CE. These remains are exhibited in the underpass connecting the Presidential Palace and The Ministerial Council, surrounded by shops selling traditional Bulgarian souvenirs and rosewater.

During the months of May and June, The Palace of Culture will welcome performers participating in the festival “Sofia Music Weeks.” The capital’s many theatres and galleries offer a wide range of interesting exhibits and shows.

The city is a preferred destination for international congresses, and there are a great many halls and centres offering possibilities for every need. For example, one of the city’s most popular venues for business forums and trade fairs is The National Palace of Culture.

Sofia is also home to Bulgaria’s most prestigious and largest educational institutions.

Near Sofia, in the Vitosha, Lozen, and Stara Planina (Central Balkan) Mountains, over the centuries so many monasteries have been founded that they came to be known as Sofia’s Holy Mountains. They can be considered as a single complex, and played an important role in preserving the Bulgarian spiritual heritage during the centuries of Ottoman occupation. Still standing are The Dragalevski, Lozen, Germanski, Kremikovski, Cherepishki, and Osenovlashki Monasteries, among others.

Opportunities for sport and recreation in the capital are many and varied – outdoor swimming pools, tennis courts, modern gymnasiums and sports halls, and parks. The city’s stadiums draw thousands of fans for matches between major football teams. Sofia’s parks are a favourite place for rest and recreation. Borisov Park is right in the centre of the city, and South Park is next to the National Palace of Culture.

Like every big city, Sofia has something for every taste. There are a great many luxury hotels, including those that are part of international hotel chains. There is also a wide variety of hostels and smaller family guesthouses. There are a multitude of discotheques, restaurants, bars, piano bars, folk clubs, taverns, soda fountains, fast food outlets and many other kinds of entertainment.

The city's annual celebration is observed on September 17, in honour of the martyrdom of Saint Sofia and her three daughters Vyara (Faith), Nadezhda (Hope), and Lyubov (Love).

Public transport in Sofia

Tickets for 30 and 60 minutes journeys allow an unlimited number of transfers. The single ticket for half an hour for all types of transportation is BGN 1.60 (approximately EUR 0.80), and the one for one hour - BGN 2.20

Tickets can be bought from the ticket machines at the entrances of the Metro or at the cashier's desks of Metropolitan or the cashier's desks at stops, or from the driver. Instead of buying a BGN 1.60 ticket three times, using the metro, bus and trolleybus, for example, with the 30- or 60-minutes ticket you can change vehicles unlimitedly.

Paper tickets will only be sold by drivers on buses, trolleybuses and trams, as well as at metro ticket offices. However, they will only apply to the specific vehicle and will not allow transfer. The ticket from the ground transport drivers will cost BGN 2, and the one for the metro - BGN 1.60. The idea is to use paper tickets as an exception.

The time tickets

Time tickets can be purchased in three ways. One is through a bank card that is validated on the blue devices in the vehicles or when entering the metro. The other option is to load a Sofia City Card plastic card, bought at one of the points of the Center for Urban Mobility (CGM) for a one-time sum of BGN 3.00. It can be loaded for a certain number of tickets at the stations or through the web portal of the Central Railway Station, as well as at the cash desks in the metro. The Ultralight card, which costs BGN 0.80, is bought and loaded in the same way. It is both paper and chip and can be loaded in the same way. The difference between the two cards, apart from the material from which they are made, is that the more expensive plastic can also be loaded with a subscription card for public transport, and not just a short-term transport document.

It is a requirement for passengers to validate their cards (bank cards or those issued by CGM) each time they board a new vehicle. In addition, it is important that the last transfer was made before the expiry time of the ticket, and the journey with this vehicle can continue even after that.
